LETTER OF TRANSMITTAL.

Harrisburg, Pa., December 1, 1921.

Honorable James F. Woodward,
Secretary of Internal Affairs.

SIR:—

In compliance with the duties of my office, I transmit herewith a compilation of statistics for the year 1920 on Productive Industry, Railways, Taxes and Assessments, and Waterways. Also miscellaneous statistics which reflect the activities of the various departments of the Commonwealth for the same year.

Respectfully submitted,

M. HOKE GOTTSCHALL,

Director, Bureau of Statistics and Information.

FOREWORD.

(By James F. Woodward, Secretary of Internal Affairs)

In the year 1872 the first official report on industrial statistics for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was issued by the "Commissioner of Statistics" and the presentation of this report covering the year 1920, therefore, becomes the 48th Annual Report of the Bureau of Statistics and Information. The records of the Department of Internal Affairs show a complete set of these Annual Reports and they portray a marvelous development of industry in Pennsylvania.

The Secretary of Internal Affairs was charged with the duty of gathering industrial statistics by the Constitution of 1874 and in recent years public appreciation of the value of such data has been most pronounced. The demand for the volume issued last year was so great that the 10,000 copies were promptly distributed, requests for the book coming from every part of the civilized world. These annual reports have found favor, not only among students, investigators, officials of other States and the United States, but have proven invaluable reference documents from year to year. The inclusion in last year's volume of a variety of miscellaneous data, in addition to industrial tabulations, excited most favorable comment, and further elaboration of this feature will appear in the volume herewith presented.

By authority of an Act of Assembly approved April 20, 1921, the former Bureau of Railways and the Bureau of Taxes and Assessments in the Department of Internal Affairs were merged with the Bureau of Statistics and Information. These became, respectively, the Division of Public Utilities and the Division of Taxes and Assessments. The industrial surveys formerly conducted by the Bureau are now carried on by the Industrial Division. It was the opinion of the Legislature that economy and efficiency would be furthered by placing under one directing head the statistical functions of the Department, and the results have fully justified the move. It has also seemed wise to establish a Division of Waterways, whose duty it is to systematically compile commercial statistics on water-borne traffic and prepare other information relating to waterways and connecting interests, of practical value to the general public for present use and future developments. While the Federal Government is doing excellent work of this nature the results are too general to provide sufficient information Statewise. As a result, a complete grasp of the trend of things in the State itself is not provided. The subject is of such pressing moment that intensive study will be made through this new Division. The work lends itself naturally to the studies being conducted by the Industrial Division and the Division of Public Utilities, particularly with respect to tonnage originating on watersheds of the Commonwealth.

Mention should be made of the methods adopted in the Industrial Division for the classification of manufactured product. It will be noted in many instances that value of product is shown, but no figures are given on capital, employes or wages. The reason is that many concerns manufacture a variety of products and the capital, employes and wages are coded with that product which represents the largest value. This arbitrary rule was adopted to meet a situation which would otherwise be hopeless. It would be manifestly impossible for concerns turning out a variety of different products to separate their capital, employes and wages among each of the items reported.

Careful attention has been given to classification of industry in such a way as to keep faith with the manufacturers of the State whose reports to the Bureau are confidential. For this reason, the number of establishments of each class of industry is not given in the county and city exhibits, but are shown in the totals only.

In Part IV will be found summarized tables covering reports of steam railroads, electric railways and telegraph and telephone companies for the years 1918, 1919, and 1920. While copy for the annual report for the former Bureau of Railways had been prepared in detail for the years 1918 and 1919, publication was delayed on account of the extraordinary demands upon the facilities of the State Printing Office. Owing to the lapse of time, it has seemed best to present a comparative exhibit for the years 1918, 1919 and 1920 in tabular form, which should prove most valuable. The same considerations have prompted the presentation in Part V of comparative and summarized statements on assessments and taxes for the years 1918, 1919, 1920 and 1921.

I desire to extend thanks in this formal way to the officers of the Federal Reserve Banks in Philadelphia and Cleveland, as well as to the State Banking Commissioner, for co-operation in the preparation of the Financial and Comparative Exhibit of Savings and Wealth which appears in Part VII of this volume. Credit is likewise due to the Agricultural and Industrial Divisions of the Bureau of the Census, at Washington, for their co-operation in providing the Bureau of Statistics and Information with advance census reports previous to general distribution.

A new feature will be found in this year's report in the inclusion of miscellaneous statistics reflecting activities of the various departments of the Commonwealth for the year 1920. This data comprises Part IX of this volume. It was the opinion of the Governor that, in view of the very wide distribution of this book, it would furnish a desirable medium for disseminating information the public should have as to the results of official activities of the Commonwealth. At his request splendid co-operation has been extended by all the departments of the State Government, and to these officials I extend sincere thanks.

So promptly have the business interests of the State responded to the requests for information from the various Divisions of the Bureau during the past year, that I feel under great obligation to them for the fine spirit of co-operation displayed. Without their quick response, the more than 5,000,000 separate tabulations herewith presented could not have been made ready for printing in the ten months which elapsed from the time original questionnaires were sent out. The newspapers of the State deserve thanks also for publishing fully local statistical data furnished by the Bureau in advance of this publication. Grateful acknowledgment should also be made for courtesies extended by Business Men's organizations, Chambers of Commerce and Boards of Trade in affording opportunities to me and the Director of the Bureau of Statistics and Information to present, from time to time, at public meetings facts which the Bureau's surveys have developed in their respective communities.

Extract from Act of Assembly, creating
BUREAU OF STATISTICS AND INFORMATION.

Approved—The 20th day of April, 1921.

PART VI.

REPORT ON WATERWAYS OF THE COMMONWEALTH
FOR THE YEAR 1920.

COMMERCIAL STATISTICS.

The statistics given below of water-borne freight traffic of the state show tonnage and valuation figures for two river systems, one lake port and two canals. There is a total of 218 miles of actually improved rivers, 54 miles of which being tidal formed by the Delaware at the eastern end of the state. In addition there are about 190 miles of river not really improved but commercially navigable at times of the year. The two canal systems now remaining in the state have an aggregate length of 196 miles.

The Delaware River, on the east, is navigable to Trenton, N. J., 134 miles from the Delaware Capes, at its mouth. Of this stretch there is a frontage along Pennsylvania of 54 miles. The harbors in the state are Philadelphia, Chester and Marcus Hook. The first mentioned is 100 miles from the sea, on which stretch the navigable depth is about 32 feet and on the remaining distance 12 feet. The Schuylkill tributary, at Philadelphia, is navigable for a distance of 8.6 miles; over a portion of this distance the available depth is about 30 feet. Navigation on these waters is carried on throughout the entire year.

The Ohio River, of the western part of the state, is formed by the Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers joining at Pittsburgh; an important tributary, the Youghiogheny, joins the Monongahela 15 miles above Pittsburgh.

The sections of the rivers actually improved may be described in general manner as follows. The Allegheny has been improved by three locks and dams, a distance from the mouth of 24 miles, and several more locks and dams are under construction. The available depth for navigation ranges from 7 to 8 feet and the navigation season averages about 310 days.

The Monongahela is improved throughout the entire length of stream proper, 128 miles, by 15 locks and dams. About 91.6 miles of the stream are in this state. The controlling depth for navigation is 8 feet and the season of actual operation about 350 days. The Youghiogheny branch of the Monongahela is comparatively unimportant and navigation obtains for only 5 miles up from its junction with the Monongahela.

The Ohio is improved for its full distance in this state of 39.5 miles. There are 7 locks and dams and the navigable depth ranges from 8 to 10 feet and over. The season of actual operation of boats is about 350 days.

The only harbor on Lake Erie is at the city of Erie. It has a channel depth of 20 feet and the season of navigation, 1920, reached 248 days, which is more than the average.

This harbor possesses unusual natural advantages but has lacked modern development in keeping with what should be accomplished for the only lake harbor of Pennsylvania. Under a recent Act of Legislature, the Governor appointed a Commission which is supposed to make plans for improvement not only of the peninsula, for recreational purposes, but of the harbor, proper, for the needs of lake commerce.

The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Canal together with the Delaware Division extends along the Lehigh River from Coalport, near Mauch Chunk, to Easton and thence by land line along the west bank of the Delaware River to Bristol, the total distance being 106.6 miles. On the river section there are 49 locks and on the lower section, ending at Bristol, 23 locks. The navigable depth is nearly 6 feet. The season of actual navigation averages about 190 days.

The canal of the Schuylkill Navigation Company extends along the Schuylkill River from a point near Port Clinton to Philadelphia, 88 miles. There are 38 lift locks and the obtaining depth is about 5 feet. The actual season of navigation averages 216 days.

The originating sources of the statistics are as follows: for the Delaware River, the customhouse, the office of the Commissioners of Navigation and the U. S. Engineer office, the latter particularly with respect to the local business. At Pittsburgh and at Erie, chiefly the offices of the U. S. Engineer Department. At Pittsburgh the tonnage movement is carefully collected at the Government locks, the office of the district engineer being directly responsible.

On the Delaware, separation of the traffic between the two sides of the river, has not been made, but of course the Philadelphia district in Pennsylvania is by far of greatest importance. On the Ohio, the traffic has been collected from its head at Pittsburgh, down to Lock 10, which is 28 miles below the Pennsylvania boundary. In the future it will be the endeavor to show a more complete Pennsylvania analization of the commerce as to location and otherwise.

ALLEGHENY, MONONGAHELA AND OHIO RIVERS.

Naturally, the commodity of greatest quantity and value is coal, brought down from the mines located above Pittsburgh along the Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers, particularly on the former river. Following coal, with respect to quantity, gravel and sand are important and becoming increasingly so, especially with regard to building purposes.

A large increase in the tonnage of the district has taken place in 1920 over that of 1919, the increase amounting to 7,126,853 tons, or nearly 42 per cent. While there has been a steady rise in the amount of tonnage moved the number of passengers has very much decreased.

On the Monongahela, which is the most important industrially and for transportation activity, analysis by percentage shows that of the total 24,264,354 tons moved coal amounted to 85.4; gravel 6; sand 4.1; steel 2.2; coke 1.6; all other 0.7. The down stream movement was 90.2 per cent of the total.

CANALS.

The transportation business on the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Canal and on the canal of the Schuylkill Navigation Company, consists, mainly, of coal, downward. For many years past there has been a large decrease in the amount carried. The maximum tonnage of the former canal occurred in 1855 and amounted to 1,543,000 tons, and of the latter, in 1859, 1,699,100 tons. In 1920 the tons hauled were as follows:

REPORT OF DISTRIBUTION OF FISH FOR THE YEAR ENDING NOVEMBER 30, 1920.

The report printed below shows the distribution by counties of the different species of fish shipped from the Department's hatcheries which are located at:

Pleasant Mount, Wayne County, Pa.
Corry, Erie County, Pa.
Union City, Erie County, Pa.

Torresdale, Philadelphia County, Pa.
Bellefonte, Centre County, Pa.
Erie, Erie County, Pa.

You will note that trout and other species were not shipped to certain counties. In the majority of cases this is owing to the fact that our fiscal year ended on November 30, 1920, and a great many were shipped after that date, and therefore, did not appear on the report for that year. By extending this report to January 1st the distribution would be greatly increased and would cover practically all counties; of course, there are sections of the State where certain species of fish are not adapted to the streams.

The figures showing distribution of trout, bass, sunfish, catfish and tadpoles represent size when they are planted in the streams. Numbers of yellow perch are all reared in the ponds at the hatcheries until they reach the desired size when they are planted in the streams. Numbers of white perch are also distributed which have reached the age of one and two years.

The pike perch is a species of fish which must be planted in the fry stage as there is no known way to rear them in captivity. The white fish and ciscoes are species of fish which are only planted in Lake Erie. On the report they are shown as credited to Erie County. This is owing to the fact that this hatchery is located at Erie. These species represent the commercial fishes of Lake Erie and are planted in the fry stage.

It is a well known fact that if it were not for the artificial propagation of fishes it would only be a matter of a few years before this valuable food supply would be exhausted. At the Port of Erie during the year ending November 30, 1920, practically 7,000,000 pounds of fish were taken. In the inland waters over 500,000 pounds of fish were taken with the Special Devices for which permits are issued. Up to the present time the Department has no way of knowing the number of rod, hook and line fishermen but believe there were at least 400,000 on our streams the last year. Even though we had a report as to the number of fish taken with a rod, hook and line, the pleasure which people derive from this sort of recreation could not be estimated in dollars and cents.

Any person interested in the activities of the Department can secure information any time from the Department of Fisheries at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.
